

Action Day – April 5th 2014

Report by Robert Briggs
Photographs by Pauline MacTavish

Our April working morning was dry and mild.

With 10 helpers we worked on a number of different tasks, the main task being along the footpath beside Botany Brook which emerges next to the post office.

A large section of ivy and bushes which had been climbing up a wall around 12 feet high had fallen away from the wall and was overhanging and partially blocking the footpath.

This was cut back so that the path was safe to use.

We also worked on clearing the brambles along the bank of Botany brook as they were starting to take over this area.

Removing the weeds and a general tidy up of the Harris Garden which was starting to show some colour with the bulbs and plants that had been planted last year coming to life.

